We have had an exciting year of discovery on our Farr line. As Arlene Eakle's last report indicated, we had extended our Farr line to Stephen Farr in Concord, Massachusetts, born in 1649. For over a hundred years many dedicated Farr researchers, including Archibald Bennett, former head of the Genealogical Association, had sought the key to tracing our line over the ocean from Stephen. In late 1995, Tim Farr in conjunction with an experienced genealogist, was able to find a Thomas Farr in Bedfordshire, England who had a son named Stephen, born in Bedfordshire, with same date as our Stephen. Thomas came to America in 1650. Maybeth Reimann has written an article which outlines this important find which we have included. The article in its entirety will be included in the research report to be sent to all those who have made contributions for research. This research report is compiled each year. Anyone who makes a contribution to our research efforts, in addition to the normal membership fee, will receive the more detailed report.

In this newsletter we will also report on our leadership & research meetings which took place in November. There is a report on our coming reunion, August 1-3 1996 and the beginning of a series on Emily Jane Covington, wife of Winslow Farr Sr., by his great great granddaughter, Wilma Smith. Also included are remarks of Lorin Farr at the dedication of the Manti Temple as obtained by Tim Farr and a report on the Status of Family Temple work by Joe Reimann. Doug Higham, Trustee and Financial Vice President reports on our financial condition.

FAMILY

RESEARCH COMMITTEE INFORMATION

EXCITING BREAKTHROUGH IN FAMILY RESEARCH!!!

An exciting breakthrough was announced in the November 4th Meeting of the Winslow Farr Sr. Research Committee. Information that has been sought for at least 150 years has been found. Tim Farr, a family researcher, and research committee member has been researching for the parents of Stephen Farr. The birth of Stephen and his parents and the father of his mother have been found and verified.

Maybeth Reimann is working with Tim to report the details. Several family researchers have been assigned to work with Tim to expand our knowledge in this area. Pamela Bott and Gordon and Jacqueline Farr will be working with him to move ahead.

There were twenty family members at the research meeting. Joe Reimann conducted the meeting and gave a report on the temple film names that the family is preparing. A copy of the Status of Temple Work on Family Names is added to the end of this meeting report.

David Farr, directed remarks to the family and presented material for our information and use. Dave is the base and constantly strengthens us in our efforts.

The time was given to Ron Farr for Reports from researchers and other family members to report their activities and findings. Ruth Stafford, who has been so active in our family research, has requested release from the research committee. She has a full-time responsibility to take care of her husband. We will miss her and her contributions to the committee and family projects.

Maybeth reported on handed out material to England families. If we we would have a great need for more family several sources that need to be researched. She guide most all those who are researching New could just follow through on what she has suggested, volume of new information available to us. There is a researchers to cover these areas.

Tim Farr reported his findings and if everyone attending was as excited as I was, and nearly everyone expressed to me or others their feelings, then this was one of the best family history meetings that anyone could attend.

We invite any and all of you to attend the next Family Research Meeting which President David Farr announced would be on 27 April 1996 at the Joseph Smith Memorial Building (Hotel Utah) at 10:30 a.m. (That is 10:30 a.m. Saturday, 27 April 1996). If you have information on your research that you would like to report, then call or write Ron Farr, (602)396-5313 or Fax (602)396-5620 or write to: 4013 E. Des Moines, Mesa, AZ 85205 and let me know 1 month prior to the meeting.

We next heard from Yvonna Tyrell, who is working on the Farwell and Baldwin lines. She has verified nearly all of the Farwell family, finding the information and checking to see that all the temple ordinances have been completed.

Ron Farr reported on the response to letters sent to family members who had expressed an interest in research assignments. As of this date we have given assignments to Joanne Blair, Gordon and Jacqueline Farr, Anthony and Vicki Farr. In addition, Scott McGregor, Sharon Jeppson, Mary Ellen Smith, Suzanne Fenton, Paul and Diane Warner, Carol Seitzinger, Sheri and Jacob Helt all responded and expressed interest. Some have other family assignments, but will assist in specific needs. The Warners are on a mission and the Helts are at a college assignment in Virginia. We hope to have assignments to Scott soon, and Suzanne will be available in 1996. We are so grateful for your desires and interest in the family research projects.

Ron also reported on his search on the Hovey line and a verification on James Hovey, son of Daniel Hovey. In the church ancestral line, there is a Rebecca Dane listed as the wife of James Hovey. Maybeth had corrected that to Priscilla Warner. The marriage record of Priscilla Warner to James Hovey and the affidavit of a person who attended the wedding have again proved that Maybeth had a verified and documented record. The question came up because of a will by John Dane in which he named a Daniel Hovey as his grandson. There were several Hovey families and more than one with a son named Daniel in Brookfield, Massachusetts, and hence the wrong assumption. The Warner line is well documented.

We left the meeting enthused and pleased to have heard the good news. The family organization is getting stronger and as it does, we will do more work for our ancestors.

The friendship and love generated by the family members in doing research and attending these meetings is very rewarding. We thank all of you for every thing you do, including your prayers and interest.

Ron Farr
Committee Chairman

I do want to point out the faithful efforts of Ron in getting our research committee organized and assigned to family lines on our pedigree chart. Ron and the committee decided that Tim Farr should head up Farr research efforts because of his diligence and success in furthering our progress here. Dr. Arlene Eakle who had been doing a lot of onsite research back east on the Farr line will be standing by to assist us in any way she can.

Our hats off to the efforts of our research committee as well as the continued support by Joe Reimann in providing names for temple work in the various temples. As always we appreciate the continued efforts and work by Maybeth Reimann.

LORIN FARR'S REMARKS AT DEDICATION OF MANTI TEMPLE

On May 21, 1888 the Manti Temple was to be dedicated. The June 18, 1888 Millennial Star concerning the dedication ' From an early hour on the cede of May people began to assemble on the hill east of the Temple, at which admission was to be gained, and by 9:30 the grounds were black with people. The day was lovely, the threatened rain of the night preceding having passed away. As for two days before, all the roads leading to Manti were clouded with incoming teams, each loaded with living freight bound for the dedication.' President Lorenzo Snow offered the dedicatory prayer and several of the apostles spoke along with other prominent brethren in the priesthood. Among those, Lorin Farr spoke briefly. The Millennial Star reported that heavenly choirs were heard and some of the saints saw the spirits of departed leaders such as Joseph Smith and

Brigham Young in the temple. A great spiritual feast was had by those in attendance. (See the House of the Lord, Talmage, p. 193-194)

In a letter to Tim Farr, Victor Rasmussen quoted the remarks of Lorin Farr at the Manti Temple dedication.

'Elder Lorin Farr said he felt very thankful for the present privilege. For a year and a half he had not been able to stand before a congregation. For over fifty-six years he had been connected with the Church, and when a youth, he was intimately associated with the Prophet Joseph Smith. He never saw a man who manifested greater kindness and consideration towards his family than Joseph did. He knew him then to be a prophet of God. A greater prophet never lived. He held the keys of all dispensations, and conferred the same upon the Apostles. Temples would yet be built not only throughout America but in the various nations of Europe and Asia as well.'

'He could promise the saints that if they would be faithful, the present temple never should be taken from them nor destroyed. Faithful men had died in the past ages were engaged in the work of redemption in other spheres, which work would be connected with that performed in the Temple upon the earth. Millions of the dead were waiting for ordinances to be performed by the living in their behalf. He could testify that the Latter-day Saints were people of God. It was the little stone cut out of the mountain without hands which was destined to fill the whole earth.'

slave labor, the Covingtons established a large plantation in Summerville. Here three children were Elizabeth Ann. John Thomas, August 7, 1840; Emily 1843; and Sarah Ann, February 2, 1845. Sarah Ann in 1845.

During this time period many of the Thomas family, relatives of Elizabeth Ann Thomas, had also moved to Summerville, Noxubee County, Mississippi. Some of the Covington and Thomas families attended Gospel meetings which were presented by Mormon missionaries. Robert D. Covington and Elizabeth Ann Covington were baptized February 3, 1843. Robert D. Covington's father, brothers and sisters disapproved of their new religion. Robert D. Covington was eventually disinherited.

In 1845, Robert D. and Elizabeth Ann Covington left Mississippi and joined the Saints in Nauvoo, Illinois. After just two years in Nauvoo, the Covington family joined the great Mormon Westward migration. Travelling by wagon train they headed toward the great Salt Lake Valley. They travelled in Edward Hunter's Company under the leadership of Captain Daniel Thomas. Emily Jane was 4 years old. The wagon train endured rain, hail storms, dust storms, lack of good water and wood to burn.

Indians often followed the group and sometimes approached their camp to beg or trade for food. On one occasion the travelers had stopped to repair wagons near a growth of wild currant bushes. Emily Jane and her older brother John were given an empty lard bucket and sent to pick the ripe currants. When their container was about full, several Indians reared up from hiding with a loud war whoop. The frightened children dropped the bucket and ran for camp. When they looked back the Indians had retrieved the currants and were laughing at their big joke. The Indians, on several occasions, stampeded their cattle. However, the Mormon leaders tried to maintain a friendly relationships as no one wanted a hostile confrontation with the Indian followers.

Somewhere near what is now known as Scotts Bluff, Nebraska, Elizabeth Ann gave birth to her last child, Robert Laborious on August 1, 1847. After traversing the last of the cold, slow and rough miles through the mountains, the Hunter Company arrived in Salt Lake Valley on September 27, 1847. Elizabeth was frail and weakened from the hardships of the journey. She fell ill of a severe respiratory infection and died December 7, 1847.

Robert moved his family to the cottonwood settlement located just south of Salt Lake City. He became the school teacher and was called Professor Covington by the community. He accumulated land and livestock and married twice more. His second wife was Melinda Allison Kelly. His third wife was Nancy Roberts. In April of 1857 Robert D. and a number of other men from the Southern States were called by President Brigham Young to travel to Southern Utah to establish a new settlement on the Virgin River. At the age of 14, Emily Jane Covington was one of the 160 men, women and children who were called to move 330 miles to Southern Utah to establish a new Mormon settlement.

The phrase "I was Called to Dixie" became the by-word of the hardy pioneers who journeyed and stayed to establish the communities of Washington and St. George in Southern Utah. Like the true Dixie of the Southern United States, they planted cotton, sugar cane, tobacco and later alfalfa, vineyards and peach trees.

Winslow Farr, Jr., resided with his father and mother, Winslow Farr, Sr. and Olive Hovey Farr on their farm in the cottonwood settlement. Winslow, Jr. describes his journey to Cotton country:

September 27, 1858: I started with a horse team for the Cotton Country the distance of 330 miles.

After describing his 11 day journey, he continued in his diary:

October 8, 1858: I arrived at my place of destination down in cotton country on the 8th of October in good health. My animals stood the trip first rate.

On the 17th of October 1858 at eleven o'clock a.m., I was married to Emily Jane Covington the daughter of Robert D. & Elizabeth Covington Washington City Washington County Utah. I help to make molasses while was there from sugar cane (Diary of Winslow Farr, Jr. 1856-1899, Page 42).

At the time of their marriage Winslow Farr Jr., was 21 and Emily Jane Covington was 15. Ten days later the newlyweds began their journey back to Winslow's parents home in the Cottonwood settlement.

October 27, 1858: I with my wife started for G.S. Lake the distance of 330 miles arrived there on the 10th of November in good health I am living with my father the following season I farmed my fathers place for one third of the crop he helping what he as able and boarded (sic) us till harvest wheat crops did not do very well this year. I raised for my share 105 bushels of wheat 30 bushels of corn 20 bushels of potatoes and I do not know as this will ever be any (good?) to any one but to my mind I do write as these things present. (Diary of Winslow Farr, Jr. 1856-1899, Page 45).

On November 9th of 1859 Winslow and his wife started by team and wagon for Southern Utah to await the birth of their first child.

Washington County February 3, 1860: "at 2 o'clock p.m. our first child was born Winslow Robert. (Diary of Winslow Farr, Jr. 1856-1899, Page 45).

Winslow Farr, Jr. helped his father-in-law, Robert D. Covington, quarry sandstone and build a stone wall. In addition, Winslow drove cattle to mountain pastures, hauled seed cotton to the gin, helped bail cotton and plant trees. He also worked for others in exchange for cotton and molasses. On April 24, 1860, their wagons loaded with 100 bales of cotton and 42 gallons of molasses, the young couple headed out for the return journey to the Salt Lake Valley.

(This is part I of the thorough and interesting report provided by Wilma Smith.. It will be continued in further issues.)

WHO ARE THE FARRS BEYOND MASSACHUSETTS?

The Report We Have Waited Long to Have, We Now Have.

by Maybeth Reimann

The door that has been closed for so long has been opened.

The Farr Families have had a family secret: Mysterious, perplexing and frustrating, The "closed door" was not for a closet that hid any "Black Sheep". There are none. It hid the answers to the BIG QUESTIONS:

- WHO are the Farris beyond Massachusetts?
- WHAT are their names?
- WHERE did they live, marry and have families?
- WHEN did they leave their homes across the ocean?
- WHEN did they arrive on the coasts of Massachusetts, or Maine?
- HOW did they get from there to here? (They were not listed on known ships)

Now, aren't these Mysterious, Perplexing and Frustrating questions that have been asked for so long? But not NOW. NOW WE KNOW.

For 100 years, perhaps more, Farr Family researchers have searched for answers to these questions. Among those searching were our own Great Grandparents, Aaron, Lorin and Winslow Farr, Jr. Also were the distant cousins who lived in the New England States, who searched pertinent New England information but, neither they, nor the professional researchers that they hired, could find the answers.

Of special note for whom we owe a great debt of gratitude for her extensive contributions was a close cousin, Josephine Farr Olson Lundwall. Josephine passed away more than 40 years ago, but she left us a great heritage: The multitude of researched records of our families, including the many surnames for both Farr and Freeman extended families. Much of the material used on the large Farr Pedigree charts, was initially from her work. It gave us a basis for background from Winslow Farr, Sr., and Olive Hovey Freeman Farr, and much of the details. It is amazing the information she was able to get, with so few sources that long ago. She must have written uncountable number of letters, both to known and unknown relatives; she made a trip back to New England, and concentrated on the Massachusetts records, where most of the families settled in the early settlements, (including at least one who came in 1620 -- Richard Warren, a Mayflower passenger.) From then on there seemed to be a constant stream of new settlers, many of whom were our ancestors. With the new accumulated information of records, much additional material has enlarged the Farr chart.

Let me hasten to say that not all has yet been added, and not all yet found, but the newest and most exciting information since, perhaps, the beginning, is now ready to put on to the Farr Chart.

A granddaughter of Josephine is Renae Warner. Renae, with her husband, recently returned from a 5-year mission to Romania. She is now one of the Farr Family Researcher Group.

There has been much that is not yet written about the enlarged additions to the Farr charts; many have contributed during the past years, and much yet to find. The newest information gives us understanding that "everything is NOT already done by others", and we just need to search harder for that which is incomplete. What a thrill it has been to find that which has been evasive for so long.

So....what are these answers, who made the discovery, and when?

At our research meeting in November, Ron introduced Tim Farr, a High School teacher of music, from Ferron Utah. He, with the assistance of his own certified and professional researcher, uncovered the following, part of which he presented at the meeting:

I would ask those listed under the family file name to please contact me when the work is completed so we can provide more names to be done. I would like a report in early April of the percentage of the work completed so I can report in our research meeting on April 27th. If anyone wishes to write or call me to request that names be sent to additional temples or would like to be involved in some way in joining us in this work I have provided my address and phone number below.

Thanks to all who have helped in providing names for work to be done in the temples through research, contributions and encouragement. It is a great opportunity to be able to do this important work for our ancestors. Best wishes.
